Preface

This manual provides a guideline to Freeport Certificate holders who wish to apply for Freeport preferential port handling charges, hereinafter referred to as preferential charge, on goods imported into and re-exported from a Freeport zone by a Freeport Certificate holder. It describes the procedures to be followed for the application; processing and approval through the new web based application system as well as the obligations and responsibility of operators/declarants in the submission of applications thereof. This manual is mainly addressed to Freeport operators and their declarants. It may also be useful to shipping agents and port officers dealing with Freeport Certificate holders.

Preferential charge has been granted since 1994 by the Mauritius Port Authority (MPA) and Cargo Handling Corporation Ltd (CHCL) to Freeport operators as part of the overall incentive package to the Freeport sector.

Scope

The scope of this manual is limited to the conditions, procedures and guidelines related to the new web based application system to benefit from preferential charges on Freeport containerized and bulk cargo.

Eligibility for Preferential Port Handling Charges

Preferential charges are given to Freeport Certificate holders for Freeport containerized or bulk cargo imported by a vessel and exclusively meant for re-export. Preferential charges are also given on re-export of cars, fish and other general goods exclusively meant for re-export.
Preferential charges are not applicable for groupage cargo or cargo imported in LCL containers and goods sourced from Mauritius for subsequent export.

3.1 Conditions to benefit from Preferential Port Handling Charges (CHCL Shore handling charges and MPA quay fees)

c) Freeport goods which are re-exported constructively i.e Freeport cargo that remain within the Port terminal and re-exported therefrom,

d) Freeport goods which are imported in one container and re-exported in another container provided the quantity and net weight of cargo imported remain unchanged,

e) Freeport Goods imported in more than one container, unstuffed and re-shuffled in the same number of containers prior to re-exportation, whether in the same or different containers,

f) Freeport Goods imported in bulk and re-exported in containers or vice versa however the whole consignment must be re-exported to overseas. (Shore handling charges do not apply for goods imported in bulk for direct delivery on vehicles)
Only goods that have been granted preferential port handling charges at import in containers shall be eligible for preferential port handling charges at export.

If goods imported from local market are mixed with Freeport goods imported from overseas and re-exported thereon, the Freeport operator shall not benefit from preferential port handling charges.

Freeport goods imported in bulk and subsequently re-exported in containers shall benefit from preferential port handling charges at export only if an application is submitted at export and if the correct CPCs have been used at import and export.
